SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

In 2000, Becky Jarrell donated her mother's collection to the Montgomery County Archives. Born in 1917, Dottie Williams married Lea A. McCauley, Jr., a civil service employee at Fort Campbell and World War II veteran. Dottie survived her husband by ten years and died on January 29, 1999. The Dottie Williams McCauley Collection contains 34 items, consisting of documents related to home economics, agriculture, and local events in Middle Tennessee. It includes pamphlets, newspaper clippings, and magazines.

Publications, including Farmers' and Public Health Bulletins, from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, U.S. Public Health Service, and University of Tennessee Agricultural Extension Service comprise almost half the collection. These publications date from 1917 to 1933 with a range of subjects, such as food preparation and storage, housework, and animal husbandry.

An assortment of newspaper clippings from the Nashville Banner, The Leaf Chronicle, and The Tennessean highlight local happenings in the Middle Tennessee area. These newspapers span from January 28, 1931 to March 31, 1975. The bulk of the clippings appeared from November 26, 1952 to January 28, 1954 in The Leaf Chronicle of Clarksville.

The final component of the collection features magazines dating from 1933 to 1977. The Gentlewoman, The Home Magazine, Woman's World, The Magazine of the Town and Country and Hobbies, The Magazine for Collectors are a few of the samplings in this collection.

The Dottie Williams McCauley Collection is arranged based on type of document and date. For the U.S. Department of Agriculture Farmers' Bulletins, the publications are arranged by the bulletin number from No. 574 through 1370.
